

In 2012, Lionel Ferreira rode HS Daydream's Decorum to the World's Champion of Champions Junior Three-Gaited title as well as the ASHA Four-Year-Old Sweepstakes World's Championship.

A full sister to Heads Up, HS Daydream's Fashionista was the Three-Year-Old Fine Harness Mare World's Champion with Nelson Green in 2014.

Just this past season Kenny Smith rode HS Daydream's Celebrity, a Sir William Robert son of A Daydream Believer, to the Three-Gaited 15.2 & Under World's Championship.

credit for her remarkable success goes to him. His foresight, vision and drive led to her producing so many great horses. He put more planning and thought into that than anyone I've ever seen. It's kind of like Betty Weldon and Will Shriver, she had the belief in him and then made sure it happened. Scott believed in this mare. Besides the show horses she has already produced, her daughters will be producers for years to come and we have two young stallions, HS Castle Vision (by Castle Bravo) and HS Daydream's Dignity (by Sir William Robert) who look like they will be top producers."

Scott Hagan has been the mare's owner since 2005. She became a vital part of life and his breeding program.

"I bought A Daydream Believer from Kenny and Ceil Wheeler after she had already had three foals (one of the being Castledream) so I wasn't around her at all as a show horse other than seeing her show," stated Hagan. "As a broodmare she was a wonderful personality and very kind horse to be around. Fred Sarver and Dr. Rob Foss said she tolerated all of the gyrations of embryo transfer and oocyte production without a problem. She lived at Dr. Foss's for at least the last five years of her life except for a brief period we brought her back to Fred's [Sarver] during the winter during which I got many pictures of her.

"Clearly A Daydream Believer was the centerpiece of Hagan Saddlebreds' breeding program. Her full sister, I Am The Dream, is coming on strong too, having produced HS Baby Steps and HS I'm Hot Wired. In my opinion, she will go down in Saddlebred history as, if not the best producer of all time (the only mare to produce World's Grand Champions in different divisions), then at least in the Top 5 along with Reverie's Desdemona, Kate Shriver, Flirtation Walk and Putting On Airs. I believe that broodmares are more important than stallions as A Daydream Believer produced world's champions by three different stallions: Castle

Bravo, Sir William Robert and Undulata's Nutcracker, so I look forward to breeding her daughters.

"Just look at the female lines in the Broodmare Hall of Fame mares.

Great mares produce great mares (see Dream A Dream, Callaway's Agatha Christie, Carol Trigg, Lady Trigg, Spelling Bee, Carol Lynn, Flirtation Walk, and Reverie's Desdemona). A Daydream Believer was exceptional in so many ways: she was run-off game, she had the fire in her eyes, she moved off her back end perfectly, she did what old timers call 'rolled her shoulders' or had an 'oily way of going' with her front end. She made you look at her and you could tell she was a challenge to ride or drive. She had a beautiful neck and set her head well (when she wanted to) and overall was just a stunning individual.

"There have been three things in my life that 'I just had to have,' my wife Wendy, a shopping center I own which is my company's flagship asset and A Daydream Believer. The first time I saw her was when George Knight showed her in junior harness at Junior League. I was completely captivated and said to myself that one day I would own her. I felt deep in my bones that she would be a great broodmare and was so grateful to Kenny and Ceil [Wheeler] when they sold her to me. I am so very thankful that I owned her and had the resources to help her become the producer she was."

Everyone who was ever around her fell in love with her attitude and ability. "She was so unique, concluded Fred Sarver. "The way she carried herself in the ring, the hook she had in her neck and the gameness she possessed were all exceptional traits. Who knew she would be this kind of producer though? Dr. Alan Raun once told me, 'In breeding horses, it pays to be both lucky and smart. If you have to choose one, choose luck!' However, in Scott's selection of A Daydream Believer, he was very smart!"

A daughter of Attache's Born Believer and Dream A Dream (BHF), A Daydream Believer delivered a slew of world's champion performers and left Scott Hagan with two young stallion sons whose first foals are most impressive.
