

Local developer competes in World Championship Horse Show

“I’ve done this for over 50 years,” Hagan said. “I started showing when I was five and have been in the business since then.”

SARAH BENNETT PEERCE

By Eleanor Tolbert
Reporter, Louisville Business First
Aug 26, 2022

While Scott Hagan is dedicated to his real estate career, his day job helps him pursue his other passion: Saddlebred horses.

The local developer is behind several well-known properties in Louisville, including Shelbyville Road Plaza. What some may not know is that he’s also accomplished in the equine industry, specifically for breeding and showing American Saddlebreds.